

Anti-bullying and harassment

Approved by: Chief Executive

Date: September 2019

Last reviewed on: September 2019

Next review due by: September 2023

Contents

1. About this policy.....	2
2. What is harassment?	2
3. What is bullying?.....	3
4. If you are being harassed or bullied?	3
5.Raising a formal complaint.....	4
6. Formal investigations	4
7. Action following the investigation	5
8. Appeals.....	5
9. Protection and support for those involved	5
10. Confidentiality and record keeping	6

1.About this policy

The Diamond Learning Partnership Trust (the Trust) is committed to providing a working environment free from harassment and bullying and ensuring all staff are treated, and treat others (including parents, guardians, carers and pupils), with dignity and respect. Tolerance, understanding and care for the welfare of others should be a characteristic of the Trust and its schools. Our expectation is that everyone will uphold the ethos of the Trust and its schools, and that any incidents of bullying or harassment will be reported and taken seriously.

This policy covers harassment or bullying which occurs at work and out of the workplace, such as on trips or at work-related events or social functions. It covers bullying and harassment by staff (which may include consultants, contractors and agency workers) and also by third parties such as suppliers, parents, guardians, carers or visitors to our premises.

This policy covers all employees, officers, consultants, contractors, volunteers, casual workers and agency workers. It does not form part of any employee's contract of employment and it may be amended at any time.

Bullying or harassment may be of such a nature that safeguarding concerns are raised and the Designated Safeguarding Lead may need to be informed. Please see the Trust's Safeguarding and Child Protection Policies and Procedure for more information.

2.What is harassment?

Harassment is any unwanted physical, verbal or non-verbal conduct that has the purpose or effect of violating a person's dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for them. A single incident can amount to harassment.

It also includes treating someone less favourably because they have submitted or refused to submit to such behaviour in the past.

Unlawful harassment may involve conduct of a sexual nature (sexual harassment), or it may be related to age, disability, gender reassignment, marital or civil partner status, pregnancy or maternity, race, colour, nationality, ethnic or national origin, religion or belief, sex or sexual orientation. Harassment is unacceptable even if it does not fall within any of these categories.

Harassment may include, for example:

unwanted physical conduct or "horseplay", including touching, pinching, pushing and grabbing; continued suggestions for social activity after it has been made clear that such suggestions are unwelcome;

sending or displaying material that is pornographic or that some people may find offensive (including e-mails, text messages, video clips and images sent by mobile phone or posted on the internet);

unwelcome sexual advances or suggestive behaviour (which the harasser may perceive as harmless);

racist, sexist, homophobic or ageist jokes, or derogatory or stereotypical remarks about a particular ethnic or religious group or gender;

outing or threatening to out someone as gay or lesbian;

offensive e-mails, text messages or social media content; or mocking, mimicking or belittling a person's disability.

A person may be harassed even if they were not the intended "target". For example, a person may be harassed by racist jokes about a different ethnic group if the jokes create an offensive environment.

3.What is bullying?

Bullying is offensive, intimidating, malicious or insulting behaviour involving the misuse of power that can make a person feel vulnerable, upset, humiliated, undermined or threatened. Power does not always mean being in a position of authority, but can include both personal strength and the power to coerce through fear or intimidation.

Bullying can take the form of physical, verbal and non-verbal conduct. Bullying may include, by way of example:

- physical or psychological threats;
- name calling, taunting, teasing, mimicking, insulting or demanding money;
- intimidating behaviour, isolation or exclusion;
- overbearing and intimidating levels of supervision; or
- inappropriate derogatory remarks about someone's performance;
- Legitimate, reasonable and constructive criticism of a staff member or pupil's performance or behaviour, or reasonable instructions given to staff member or pupils in the course of their employment or learning, will not necessarily amount to bullying on their own.

4.If you are being harassed or bullied: informal steps

If you are being harassed or bullied, consider whether you feel able to raise the problem informally with the person responsible. You should explain clearly to them that their behaviour is not welcome or makes you uncomfortable. If this is too difficult or embarrassing, you should speak to your line manager or the HR Department, who can provide confidential advice and assistance in resolving the issue formally or informally.

If you are not certain whether an incident or series of incidents amounts to bullying or harassment, you should initially contact your line manager or the HR Department informally for confidential advice.

If informal steps are not appropriate, or have been unsuccessful, you should follow the formal procedure set out below and/or refer to our Grievance Procedure.

5.Raising a formal complaint

If you wish to make a formal complaint about bullying or harassment, you should submit it in writing to the Headteacher or appropriate senior member of Trust staff, whose role is to achieve a solution wherever possible and to respect the confidentiality of all concerned. If the matter concerns that person, you should refer it to the next senior member of staff within the structure or the Chair of the Board.

Your written complaint should set out full details of the conduct in question, including the name of the harasser or bully, the nature of the harassment or bullying, the date(s) and time(s) at which it occurred, the names of any witnesses and any action that has been taken so far to attempt to stop it from occurring.

As a general principle, the decision whether to progress a complaint is up to you. However, we have a duty to protect all staff and may pursue the matter independently if, in all the circumstances, the Trust considers it appropriate to do so.

6.Formal investigations

The Trust will investigate complaints in a timely and confidential manner. Individuals not involved in the complaint or the investigation should not be told about it. The investigation will be conducted by someone with appropriate experience and no prior involvement in the complaint. The investigation should be thorough, impartial and objective, and carried out with sensitivity and due respect for the rights of all parties concerned.

We will arrange a meeting with you, usually within 15 days of receiving your complaint, so that you can give your account of events. You have the right to be accompanied by a colleague or a trade union representative of your choice, who must respect the confidentiality of the investigation. You will be given a provisional timetable for the investigation. The investigator will arrange further meetings with you as appropriate throughout the investigation.

Where your complaint is about an employee, we may consider suspending them on full pay or making other temporary changes to working arrangements pending the outcome of the investigation, if circumstances require. The investigator will also meet with the alleged harasser or bully to hear their account of events. They have a right to be told the details of the allegations against them, so that they can respond.

Where your complaint is about someone other than a staff member, such as a supplier, parent, guardian, carer, visitor or pupil, we will consider what action may be appropriate to protect you and anyone involved pending the outcome of the investigation, bearing in mind the reasonable needs of the business and the rights of that person. Where appropriate, we will attempt to discuss the matter with the third party.

It may be necessary to interview witnesses to any of the incidents mentioned in your complaint. If so, the importance of confidentiality will be emphasised to them.

7.Action following the investigation

Once the investigation is complete, we will inform you of our decision.

Where the harasser or bully is an employee the matter will be dealt with as a case of possible misconduct or gross misconduct under our Disciplinary Procedure. If the harasser or bully is a third party, such as a supplier, parent, guardian, carer, visitor or pupil, we will consider what action would be appropriate to deal with the problem. Whether or not your complaint is upheld, we will consider how best to manage any ongoing working relationship between you and the person concerned.

Whether or not your complaint is upheld, we will consider how best to manage the ongoing working relationship between you and the person concerned. It may be appropriate to arrange some form of mediation and/or counselling, or to change the duties, working location or reporting lines of one or both parties.

Any staff member who deliberately provides false information or otherwise acts in bad faith as part of an investigation may be subject to action under our Disciplinary Procedure.

8.Appeals

If you are not satisfied with the outcome you may appeal in writing to Chief Executive Officer, stating your full grounds of appeal, within 15 days of the date on which the decision was sent or given to you.

We will hold an appeal meeting, normally within one week of receiving your written appeal. This will be dealt with impartially by a manager who has not previously been involved in the case (although they may ask anyone previously involved to be present). You may bring a colleague or trade union representative to the meeting.

We will confirm our final decision in writing, usually within one week of the appeal hearing. This is the end of the procedure and there is no further appeal.

9.Protection and support for those involved

Staff who make complaints or who participate in good faith in any investigation must not suffer any form of retaliation or victimisation as a result. Anyone found to have retaliated against or victimised someone in this way will be subject to disciplinary action under our Disciplinary Procedure.

If you believe you have suffered any such treatment you should inform your line manager or the HR Department. If the matter is not remedied you should raise it formally using our Grievance Procedure or this procedure if appropriate.

10. Confidentiality and record keeping

Confidentiality is an important part of the procedures provided under this policy. Details of the investigation and the names of the person making the complaint and the person accused must only be disclosed on a "need to know" basis. Breach of confidentiality may give rise to disciplinary action under our Disciplinary Procedure.

Information about a complaint by or about an employee may be placed on the employee's personnel file, along with a record of the outcome and of any notes or other documents compiled during the process.